Sister Eulogia Karcher

On July 3, 1913, the day after the death of Sister Anastasia Werchmann, Sister M. Eulogia Karcher of Herscher, Illinois, followed her into eternity. She was in the 29th year of her age and in the 7th of her religious life. Although reserved in manner, Sister Eulogia was nevertheless, an amiable and agreeable companion. Her work as a music teacher was quite satisfactory and she was much esteemed by her pupils.

Not having a robust constitution her health began to fail rather imperceptibly at first; but after her ailment became more pronounced and even serious, she perceived her inability to continue teaching. Then a deep despondency took possession of her for a time. The struggle between the wish to live and the willingness to leave her scene of action when so young in years, became intense. Yet, prayer though dry and seemingly inefficacious, procured for her the special grace to yield her life to her Spouse when and how He pleased to demand it.
